

Reaching Out

There is no doubt internships are extremely beneficial for students, companies, and college programs alike. At Gausman & Moore we truly believe that reaching out to help the next generation of engineers is one of the most vital things we can do. We are dedicated to making sure the profession of engineering remains strong and to do our part to enhance the creativity and performance of bright, new graduates in the field.

We are especially excited about offering exposure to the consulting engineering profession. Our interns gain a valuable introduction to engineering for the built environment, obtain solid work experience, and get acclimated to the workplace as well. A student begins the first phase of their internship with us after their sophomore year. It gives them the opportunity to determine whether or not this is an area they want to pursue. A student will intern a second time after their junior year to prepare them to hit the ground running after they graduate.
